

Hi Aliza,

Just a few short lines to express my deep gratitude to you, following, your courageous presentation at Izun yesterday. I can't find enough words to communicate the moving impact you have engraved in me, and I am more than certain that in many others as well. Your survival narrative is incredible, and therefore inspiring, and so are you with your radiating presence and personality. Your early biography overwhelmed me completely and I still can't comprehend how a human being has actually survive these atrocities to become a decent, balanced, moral and functioning adult. It simply takes my breath away and negates all knowledge, theoretical understandings and professional insight I have ever inquired. You are indeed a living miracle! The way you have chosen to harness your pain and agony for a sacred purpose of delivering a message - breaking the silence - is once again, inspiring (I don't have enough word, so I repeat some...). Thank you so much for being alive and well, and for your ability to transform suffering into might and fuel! You have touched my heart dear, and you'd definitely stay there as a living symbol!

All the best!
